

We are deeply saddened by the loss of our colleague, friend, and Yumanity co-founder Susan Lindquist, and extend our sincerest condolences to her family and loved ones. Susan was a pioneering biologist and one of the foremost thinkers in the field of protein folding. She has made countless contributions to the scientific and medical communities, and her kind and generous personality has touched the lives of many students and collaborators across the world. We are inspired by her accomplishments, and strive every day to fulfill her vision of developing treatments for the millions of patients suffering from neurodegenerative diseases and their caregivers.

—The Yumanity Team